*Sister
Angela's
Girls*

Rude, bizarre and imperfect. Sister Angela is an extraordinary and unusual nun with a turbulent past. Happily and lovingly, she watches over the Convent of Angels in the beautiful city of Fabriano, together with Sister Costanza, the mother superior.

Sister Angela is an irreplaceable mother for the girls living in the convent, the home to an extended and crazy family.

There is Azzurra. Her day has finally arrived; she will marry Guido, the man of her dreams. She only needs to finish her internship and take her degree in Social Sciences so she can join Guido in London. But an important person from her past suddenly shows up at the convent to change her plans.

It's Emma, almost fifteen, a girl from the children's home Azzurra works at. She will be staying at the convent for a while. Emma has a brilliant mind, earnest and studious with the big dream to become a professional dancer. She seems a young adult probably because of her story: she was abandoned at birth.

Then there is Monica. She just recently got her degree in Medicine and landed a residency position at the hospital. She's precise and reserved, with so much self-control that, when she lets herself go, it's even worse.

After a week in Maldives, she found herself married to Luca, a man who disappears all of sudden leaving Monica with his 7 year old boy named Edo.

In the convent, Monica runs into her school friend Nico, a charming lawyer who loves women so much, he has a new one every night.

There is also Valentina, beautiful, tattooed and angry. Valentina is straight-forward, direct and isn't afraid of saying exactly what is on her mind. Her relationships, especially with men, are based on mutual trade and interests. Valentina is an "escort by choice".

In the convent lives also Gabriele, a prominent heart surgeon, eyes as dark as the night and broad shoulders. He's serious, kind and charming, the man all women would like to have by their side.
